BLACK PANTHER PARTY, aka Black Panther Party for Self Defence

According to its official newspaper, the Black Panther Party (BPP) was started during December, 1966, in Oakland, California, to organize black people so they can take control of the life, politics, and the destiny of the black community. It was organized by Bobby George Seale, BPP Chairman, and Huey P. Newton, BPP Minister of Defense. Newton is presently serving a sentence of 2 to 15 years on a conviction of manslaughter in connection with the killing of an Oakland police officer.

The official newspaper, "The Black Panther," which further describes itself as the "Black Community News Service," states that the BPP advocates the use of guns and guerrilla tactics in its revolutionary program to end oppression of the black people. Residents of the black community are urged to arm themselves against the police who are consistently referred to in the publication as "pigs" who should be killed.

"The Black Panther" issue of September 7, 1968, contains an editorial by BPP Minister of Education, George Mason Murray, which ends with the following:

"Black men. Black people, colored persons of America, revolt everywhere! Arm yourselves. The only culture worth keeping is a revolutionary culture. Change. Freedom everywhere. Dynamite! Black Power. Use the gun. Kill the pigs everywhere."

Included in the introduction to an article appearing in the October 5, 1968, edition of "The Black Panther" is the statement, "...we will not dissent from American Government. We will overthrow it."

Issues of "The Black Panther" regularly contain quotations from the writings of Chairman MAO Tse-tung of the People's Republic of China and feature MAO's statement that "political power grows out of the barrel of a gun."

The national headquarters of the BPP is located at 3106 Shattuck Avenue, Berkeley, California. Branches have been established at various locations throughout the United States.

matters, but included several copies of "The Second Front" the official newspaper of The International Union of American Deserters and Draft Resistors - Canadian Edition, (not dated). It was possible only to make a photocopy of this newspaper when the articles were made available by U. S. Customs, as subject's release on bail appeared imminent.

b7D

Since Albany believes that copies of "The Second Front" have been made available to the Bureau by [REDACTED] no leads are being set out covering the material in that typed newspaper. For the information of New York Office, this newspaper, on page 1, shows a grotesque caricature captioned "UNCLE SAM WANTS YOU," underneath which appears, "UNCLE PIG, I QUIT!" The newspaper contains many articles opposing United States involvement in Vietnam and urging United States servicemen to desert. It furnishes information designed to aid deserters to find residence and employment in Canada. There are articles by BILL JONES, Chairman, American Deserters Committee, Sweden; an article by STEVE KRAUSS, datelined at Paris, France, which indicates he was born 3/12/48, Fitchburg, Mass., entered the U. S. Army in December, 1966, and deserted on 4/23/68; a poem by JAMES PURDY, Stockholm; an article by TERRY WHITMORE of Memphis, Tennessee, who had been in the Marines, an article by ROBERT BRUCE MAC LEOD, US51730039, who deserted from the Army in September, 1968, and several anonymous articles.

W.S. The above-described photocopy is enclosed for the Bureau herewith.

Also enclosed for the Bureau is a photocopy of a mimeographed page of instructions in reaching the American Deserters Committee in Montreal; the Montreal Council to Aid War Objectors in Montreal, the Toronto Anti-Draft Programme, Toronto; Aid with Immigration and the Draft, Ottawa, and the Vancouver Committee to Aid War Objectors, Vancouver, B.C., Canada.

HOW TO DESERT

Toronto Anti-Draft Programme
2279 Yonge St. Suite 15
Toronto (tel. 481-0241)

It is best to wait until you get a leave leave. You should try to bring with you the following: Birth certificate, passport, diplomas, letters of personal reference, money (as much as you can get legally). You should bring any military diplomas you have as often as possible that military skills are best left in immigration assessment (e.g. liquor, cosmetics, etc.).

If you cannot get these papers easily, don't take a chance on getting busted.
Come on up and we can help you send for them by mail.

When you enter the country, you must enter as a VISITOR. Do not show your identity ID. Use a driver's license or birth certificate. The border guard may ask you how long you're going to visit. You should give a definite answer (e.g. "a week").
Try to have at least ten dollars for every day you say you'll be visiting. It is good to line up 200---300 dollars to use, you ever until you get visiting papers etc. But if you can't, don't let that stop you from deserting. By the way if you have a youth fare card, you can fly half-fare to Montreal. From NYC it only costs about 13 dollars.

DESERTERS AND CANADA

American military deserters have been safe in Canada for over a year, but this has not been widely known until the recent formation of our group the American Deserters Committee.

Canadian Immigration laws permit Immigration of those who meet their standards regardless of whether or not a person has completed military service. This applies to those who refuse induction as well as those who have interrupted their military service by leaving the Armed Forces. In short, whatever your relation to the United States Armed Forces, whether you are draft register, AWOL or deserter, this will not be held against you or prohibit you from receiving landed immigrant status in Canada.

While there have been no legal changes, recently certain administrative changes have been made which make it more difficult for deserters to immigrate to Canada. Now it is only safe to immigrate internally at Immigration offices within Canada. The policy now is to refuse status at border points and in fact there have been cases of outright collusion between Canadian and American border guards, especially in Ontario province.

However, once a deserter enters the country he will neither be extradited or deported for his act of desertion. An article in the Montreal daily, THE STAR, reported the policy as follows: "If an American soldier on leave comes to Canada and then decides not to return to his unit he becomes a deserter under American law but this country (Canada) will do nothing to return him to the US authorities. The reason is that to do so would indirectly extend the application of US law into Canada. In the case of this man an application for landed immigrant status would be considered with no reference to the fact that he was an American deserter. If he was eligible to stay in the normal way he could do so."

After arriving in Canada, the deserter should immediately contact the ADC or one of the other anti-draft counseling advice. The standard procedure in Montreal is to go to the Immigration office and make an appointment for an immigration interview. Usually one has to wait 4 to 5 weeks for an appointment. At the interview one must score 50 out of 90 points on the immigration rating scale (It used to be that one had to score 50 out of 100 but the recent changes rule out 10 pts for pre-arranged employment for which one is eligible for only at the border points). The points are allotted on the following basis:

- a) 1 point for every year of schooling up to 20,
- b) 0 to 15 for personal assessment--how the immigration officer impresses. Usually one gets at least 5,
- c) 0 to 15 for job demand--how much the particular occupational field is in need,
- d) 0 to 10 for occupational skills. This is where military skills such as ambulance driver, medics, etc., come in handy.
- e) 10 if you are between 18 and 35 f) 5 for speaking and writing English and up to 5 for speaking and writing French,
- g) 5 for having a relative in Canada who will nominate you, 3 if he won't. h) 0 to 5 depending on the employment situation in the area one intends to settle in.
- Usually 3 or 4 points are granted for settling in Montreal.

After passing the points test which practically everyone does, one has to wait for a medical examination and papers before being legally allowed to get a job. Final Landed Immigrant status may take months to be issued. One will be able to live and work in Canada. Sometimes there are delays in getting working papers.

WHAT IS THE ADC?

The American Deserters Committee is a newly organized group of American migrants to Canada, the majority leadership of whom are men who have served in the US Armed Forces and who have deserted from their units in response to the Vietnam war and as a protest against racial oppression in the US. Our chief work is twofold: 1) to remain in contact with the peace movement in the US and to urge and assist our fellow servicemen and women to desert to Canada, and 2) to ally ourselves with persons and organizations in Canada who are struggling against the same US sponsored empire of national self-determination.

The ADC helps new deserters with temporary housing, counseling on migration, immediate needs, etc. ADC is acting to develop public support for deserters to continue to be allowed to immigrate to Canada and to counter policies that may discriminate against deserters. We have an office at UGEG (Union Generale des Etudiants de Quebec) and also a centre where some of the guys live, and where we have educational programs, discuss a library, lounge, etc. As a community we help each other out with our problems as well as operate as a political group.

THE STEVE KRAUSS STORY

THEY DON'T KILL ME...

WHY?

Stockholm, Sweden

My name is Terry Whitmore. I am 18 years of age. I was born in Memphis. I have an average size Negro American family, 3 brothers and 2 sisters.

Soon after my high school graduation I received a letter from my Selective Service Board, asking me to report for physical. After this I received another letter which gave me the choice of volunteering now or being drafted later. Under these circumstances, I was induced voluntarily into the U.S. Marines.

On becoming a Marine, the training was very, very hard. Day in and day out the word "KILL" was constantly pound into our heads. We were taught to upon the long traditional history of the Marines as being the best American had offer.

For six months, I fought in the same jungles and hill tops of Viet Nam and during my stay I must admit, I killed and destroyed and burnt everything my path.

On Dec. 15, 1967, my company was patrol when we ran into a large force NVA. Before we could move out, the enemy spotted us, forcing us to fight. My platoon was then cut off from the rest of the Company. The enemy laid a perfect ambush, which sent the men tumbling the ground. Only two of us were able get away. Afterward I heard the cries my Commanding officer calling my name. Without thinking of the danger I rush out into the open to his side. The enemy had a clear view of me and could have taken my life very easily, but he didn't. Why? After picking the wounded up, they hit him again, still never hitting me. Why? I managed to get him safety.

By this time help had come down from Con Thien. Men and tanks were moving and jets circled the air waiting for a sign to drop their bombs. Myself and buddy were wounded and left behind. The tanks retreated and the jets began to shell the surrounding areas. While laid praying, I said to myself if I never got out of this one, I would never do it back to another one. Con Thien and I hold the Constitution of the US. I was released from the stockade in early March and proceeded to continue my anti-war activities with a change of tactics. Working with German SDS I contacted GIs in bars to discuss the war in Viet Nam, their situation in the army, and the possibilities of deserting to Sweden and France. There was great concern in Munich over the fact that about 70% of the 24th Division was being laid out to Viet Nam. The standard procedure was to present the levy to the soldier 2-3 days before he was to leave. This was obviously a result of the military's concern about the growing desertion movement. I learned that my whole company was to go into transit and deserted on April 23, 1968.

Looking back on my attempts to resist inside the army, I found it almost impossible to resist effectively due to the fact that once a resister becomes effective in reaching other GIs, the army mobilizes all its power to silence him. At the present time I think that desertion is the best means of resisting because if the American people see that even soldiers are against the dirty capitalist war in Viet Nam, they will take positive action to put a halt to the aggression of business and military interests.

I am now living in France and working with other Americans deserters and draft resisters to continue making people aware of the real situation in Viet Nam and making American soldiers aware that they are being brainwashed by the war machine, that they must stop and think for themselves instead of continuing to be puppets of the armed forces and American big business.

STEVE KRAUSS

To all GI's around the world
Don't do anything more
Leave your guns and leave your ships
Help stop this terrible war

Don't you see what you're doing
Tell you what to do
Listen to your conscience and your heart
Listen to them they'll tell you

That this war is senseless
Many people are dying
And all the while back at home
Many families are crying

Their sons and their husbands
Some who they'll never see again
Are all away in a far-off land
Trying to bring this war to an end

But killing isn't the answer
Don't they really know
The only way to stop this thing
Is to just simply pack up and go

Soldiers, sailors will continue to come
To the shores of this land
So come on and help stop this war
Come on and lend a hand

poem by James Purdy, Stockholm

I was born on March 12, 1948 in Fitchburg, Massachusetts, a small suburban community near Boston. Fitchburg is a town where your future is plotted out when you are born. Though no one ever told me about my life, I was born into the middle-class, high school and high society environment to end up in the same environment. The cast of characters in my life, like my father's parents, entered a middle-class life in Fitchburg, Mass. in my mother's womb. I was born into a middle-class family, my parents pressured me each time we return home, plan my future, fall into a normal pattern and slave for the "God-Almighty Dollar". My first alternative to the life in Fitchburg came to me through friends who were active members of I.S.A. and the N.A.C.P. Although not really politically conscious at this time, I did participate in several civil rights demonstrations in the Massachusetts area.

In September 1966, after my first year of college I received an order to report for an army pre-induction physical because my mother had previously written a letter to Sen. Ted Kennedy and Sen. Phil Hart stating that I was drafted. She wrote me one year of army discipline, wrote me down and straightened out my life so I could start thinking about my future. I can't stand now sometimes that I'm not interested in the world around me. For 20 years in the army, I did nothing but what I could do to be continually demoralized, so I went to the local recruiting station to make about the "choice not chance" because they told me that if I enlisted I would be able to enter the National Guard. For my anti-war stance, this would be the only way I could be doing something about the war. I was sent to basic training. After basic training I received permanent assignment to my life when I was assigned to a unit in Henry Clay Barracks, New York. When I completed basic training I signed a 3-year contract to work for the Army Engineers. I reportedly told, "Sorry about that. The Army tells you where to go, you don't tell the Army." At this point I was completely demoralized. I had no training and no attempt was made to train me in my new field of work, yet I was constantly harassed for my inexperience in the unit.

Upon my return from basic training, I met a representative of the National Guard in a bar, one night and he told me of a way that I could resist joining the Army. I began to distribute fliers around my base, urging GIs to think about the war in Viet Nam and the innocent people in the Army machine. In December 1967, I began to work with GIs in the stockade. I organized the group, gathered information, addition participants, and organized our demonstrations. The American has been lied to about the war. One of these lies is that the American has been lied to about the murder in Viet Nam. The American people were lied to about the war activities. In December I began to hear the news that deserters were living in freedom in Sweden. I began to hand out leaflets with stories of the life in Sweden for deserters. Four of my buddies and I held an anti-war rally within the confines of our company. We were ordered to stop at once, in order to which we stated that it was our constitutional right to express what we thought and that they had no authority to stop us. At this point a friend and I who were thought to be the organizers of the rally were immediately placed under arrest and confined to barracks. Judicial action could be taken against us. The two of us received 15 days confinement at which we were sent into the stocks in a stockade for violating our constitutional rights of freedom of speech and freedom of press. The officers who were sworn to uphold the Constitution of the US.

THINKS OF TAKING OFF TO CANADA...

I've had friends just like me Army, but with our so-called democratic country, how can a country be called free when a person can be forced into the Army and made to kill?

As you can see from the letter-head, I'm in Tigerland-the main training center for Vietnam troops. I've been pushed and harassed and had ideas forced upon me which I find impossible to accept. Supposedly, I'm being trained to fight for the freedom of the South Vietnamese people--in actuality, I'm a small part of the military-industrial complex which sacrifices people in order to keep powerful people powerful and rich people richer.

I've been AWOL for two weeks

but was forced to return due to lack of funds and of knowledge of people to turn to. Recently I read in LIFE magazine that it was possible to desert to Canada--a fact I did not know.

At this time I would be willing to desert and I am writing to find out the names and locations of organizations that could help me. I guess I could get out of the Army by striking a rifle in the ear or something, but then I would have to return to a society that is sick-a society that is willing to maintain its wealth and power through the sacrifice of its young men and through the senseless slaughter of thousands upon thousands of Asians.

This letter may seem jumbled, but my feelings of indignity and hate prevent me from presenting my feelings as clearly as I could like.

P.S. P.S.S. Dr.

MARINES GOT OUT

In June 1967 I graduated from High School and, though college was very attractive, the fact that I was of draft age was deterrent. I looked for work but being between the ages of 18 and 25, no employer would hire me on a permanent basis. Therefore, I had the choice of either waiting to be drafted or enlisting and getting into a technical field. I chose the latter. In the late summer months of 1967 I joined the Marine Corps with the intention of a technical school (electronics). I was assigned to boot camp at all marine bases. I was selected to live and think as an animal. I watched intelligent human beings forced to succumb to the way of thinking and one-way only. All who disagreed were humiliated, beaten or brainwashed into submission. I, like most, played along with the system in order to survive in this world of total hostility.

I kept playing along with the system through school, and even after I got to my duty station. However, after observing, talking with, and getting to know people who had returned from Vietnam, I was certain that I would do my utmost to avoid going overseas. It sickened me to look at 19 and 20 year old kids, old before their time, forced to take part in a war in which very few believed in. For the most part though, it seemed as if I had two choices: go to war or go to jail. I had almost resigned myself to the fact of going overseas, as prison sentences in the military are extremely harsh, until I was reading in a New York paper about Deserters and Canada. A few friends of mine and I talked over the idea for a long time, and decided when we had the sufficient funds, etc., we would split.

Well on one Friday morning, I had volunteered to give blood, and was in line waiting, a friend comes up and tells me it's time to go. While I finished donning clothes, he pacted my clothes and was waiting for me in front of the hem.

all counts with the A.D.C. - after we were released, no place to stay and very little food. The A.D.C. has provided what it could and we are now awaiting our necessary papers to apply for landed immigrant status with no real worriment.

It was a big step for me to come to Canada. I've left everything I've ever known behind. But, I've a new life to look forward to, with no worry of racial discrimination, war, or a police state.

authorities. The reason is that to do so would indirectly extend the application of U.S. laws into Canada. In the case of this man, an application for 'landed immigrant' status would be considered with no reference to the fact that he was an American deserter. If he was eligible to stay in the normal way he could do so."

The ADC advises its brothers still stuck in the military to wait until you get a leave and then come to Canada. Don't use your leave papers or military ID on entering the country. Use a birth certificate or driver's license.

The prospects of going to Ham were becoming more evident and the last thought I had in mind was going to a place where the chances of making it alive were about 80%. Combat medics aren't exactly safe in the midst of crossfire, trying to tend to patients. And when I discovered that as this was totally unnecessary and that better things lie outside gates, I walked away from the hospital barracks for the last time watching fade away like dust in my memory.

The first one is that the Canadians do not hold it against you for being a deserter, because the majority of the Canadian people are opposed to the war. Secondly, the location is ideal. St. Louis was the most beautiful city I'd ever encountered because it represented freedom—not just a city. In this case, the best thing to do was find a coffee house where fairly liberal people hang around to relax their minds. I finally found one in the Federal Housing Administration, called the CIO Coffee House, where this old black & white photo was taken. It was a

After talking to her a bit, I discovered that she was not by any means antagonistic to the fact that I was a deserter. In fact, it was as if I were some sort of hero just for the fact that I had certain defined reasons for leaving--I was washed the war. She introduced me to a friend who was a deserter who had been here for over a year. I talked with him for several hours about the procedures he went through to gain Immigrant Status in Canada. These procedures were rather simple and uncomplicated. The only problem was finding proper counseling before venturing into counseling before venturing into the immigration bureau. He knew another guy who was in on the making of a deserter group--the ADC--which was getting deserters and draft resisters together to help each other out and to continue to fight against the war. One of the first things is to try and learn some French so as to make it easier to obtain work since the French element of Quebec are more than willing to hire those who are capable of handling the work. Montreal is a good place to live, it's almost like being home except there's more girls and a multitude of things to do and even more rewarding is the knowledge that since I can work so close to the U.S. I can better accomplish the work necessary for social change.

I was taken to the infirmary and the infirmary was disengaged. He was given a bed and a place to go through basic training and back to duty. They usually people there because they are AWOL from the reception station or from basic training.

The Army has to send 2 men for Basic Training or they can't send him into a war zone, so everybody was going APOD. When these APOD were run down, they were sent to Fort Riley where they were sent to take Basic Training behind barbed wire fence. If anyone attempted to escape, they were hunted down by helicopter and taken back to Fort Leavenworth.

Well - I was there one day before I decided I wanted to free again, so I took off, flying right out of formation. I was with me and I was determined not to give up. I got away hitching a ride to town with corporal. From there I went riding again because helicopter were looking all over the place for me and I thought once or twice they had spotted me, but I was discovered. So I visited a

This time I was home about three months when the State police and FBI sneaked up on me at my home. I was taken to the stockade at Fort Knox and spent another two weeks in pre-trial confinement before being court-martialed again. I received six months confinement and hard labor and had two-thirds of my pay taken away. I was kept in the stockade 2 more weeks after the "trial", and then taken to Fort Riley, Kansas where Military Police escort.

Every time I've gone and escaped confinement I've worn Army fatigues and have run through almost impossible terrain. Which proves that when there's a will there's a way. my conscience is clean.

I first became aware of the world around me during my final year in high school. Previously I had been in my own little sphere of existence, a typical small-town resident. In 1963 I became a student at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, New York. I began to see the world as it really is, though I still had much to learn. I left after three semesters and worked for a year. About that time the Hippies happened in Boston. I visited them for a while and thus became educated in a little far from my middle-class upbringing. Disagreements with many of their attitudes left the flower children and went back to school. I had been out a year, but had gotten sucked into the machine. Halfway through the semester I was refused a deferment and then was drafted. Since I still felt slightly middle-class I went through induction and went a non-combat job. Naturally, I was refused. In the spring and summer of 1968 I found why the army is mostly draftees and forced enlistees. The previous summer I had lived in a ghetto-slum. It was like heaven compared to the Army. I trained at Ft. Dix and Ft. Wood, Mo. Receiving orders for Viet Nam made my decision for me. All the propaganda they fed me hadn't worked. I got a three week leave

REVOLUTIONARY UNION, ALSO KNOWN AS
RED UNION, BAY AREA
REVOLUTIONARY UNION

In September, 1968, a source advised that the Revolutionary Union, commonly known to its membership as the Red Union (RU), was formed in early 1968 as a covert, revolutionary, Marxist-Leninist organization ideologically oriented toward Communist China, which it views as the model of the correct revolutionary Marxist-Leninist line as developed through MAO Tse-tung. The RU advocates the necessity of violent revolution and open guerrilla warfare to overthrow the existing political system in the United States and effect radical changes in this nation, and some members are collecting firearms, explosives, and other weapons and have engaged in guerrilla warfare and firearms training. In the San Francisco Bay Area, the RU consists of three locals, one each in San Francisco, the East Bay, and the Peninsula.

In April, 1969, a second source advised that the RU partially surfaced during that month through advertisements in select "New Left" periodicals, identifying three members of the Executive Committee as public spokesmen and offering for sale select writings of the RU, including a "Statement of Principles," in the form of "The Red Papers." With the exception of the three publicly identified spokesmen, the general membership of the RU will remain covert; however, individual members are free to reveal their RU membership to close political associates as the necessities of political effectiveness dictate.

The RU's published "Statement of Principles" calls for the smashing of the existing state apparatus by the United States working class and the establishment of communism and the dictatorship of the proletariat; recognizes the necessity of violent revolution and organized armed struggle to achieve those ends and calls for the creation of a revolutionary party based upon Marxism-Leninism as developed through MAO Tse-tung.
